

DEFINITIONS

Employee representative

An employee representative is:

- (a) a representative of an independent trade union, where that trade union has been recognised by the offeror or the offeree company in respect of some or all of its employees; and
- (b) any other person who has been elected or appointed by employees to represent employees for the purposes of information and consultation.